Description

Most websites that use Paypal to sell digital goods electronically are not very secure. What this software does is let the customers find the final link, but after that it will make sure that they have actually purchased the item, and that the transaction has been completed. Following that, they will be sent the link to the product by email. Rather than relying on cheap gimmicks or low tech tricks, this script actually connects to the Paypal server, which is why it makes your sales much more secure. As well, it is incredibly easy to set up, as you just have to change a quick option in your Paypal account, then create a button from your Paypal account, and just fill in some fields in the configuration file! And if you manage to get lost, or want to add extra features, then there's a very comprehensive read me file included!
